ingly give all the necessary information concerning the life etc., of the Order.

Holy Rosary Hospital at the present time, houses the Novitiate, but this building is too inadequate to be used as Hospital, Convent, and Novitiate. The Sisters are anxious to build a separate building to be used solely for the House of Novitiate, but for this, funds to purchase suitable property and to erect the Novitiate are lacking. These exiles in a strange land kindly ask the readers and friends of "Dominicana" to intercede with St. Dominic that he may lead some wealthy client of his to think of the Dominican Sisters of Ontario, Oregon, during the seventh centenary of the foundation of his Order.

IN MEMORIAM

The death of Rev. Joseph Thos. Keelty, O. P., occurred on August 27th. At the time of his death Fr. Keelty was stationed at St. Louis Bertrand's Church, Louisville, Ky., where he was highly esteemed. Owing to his kind and tender-hearted disposition, Fr. Keelty was especially liked as a Confessor.

Fr. Keelty was born in Zanesville, O., February 27, 1867. He made his profession in the Dominican Order on March 21, 1886. His studies preparatory for the priesthood were made at St. Rose's Convent, Ky. and St. Joseph's Convent, Somerset, O. At this latter convent, he was ordained to the priesthood on June 16, 1891. During the past summer, Fr. Keelty celebrated his silver jubilee at St. Mary's of the Springs Convent, Columbus, O., with his four sisters: Srs. M. Constance, M. Cecilia, M. Cyril, and M. Catherine, all members of that community.

For many years Fr. Keelty labored earnestly and faithfully as a member of the Eastern Mission Band. Owing to his impaired health, Fr. Keelty could not preach as much as he desired. He suffered patiently during his illness only to be relieved by the hand of death. Fr. Keelty died at SS. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital, Louisville, Ky., August 27th.

By the death of Fr. Keelty, the Church has lost a good, faithful priest and the Order, a true, devoted and loyal son. His remains now rest with those of his brethren in St. Joseph's Cemetery, Somerset, O. May he rest in peace.

Rev. Joseph Thomas Keelty, O. P.
IN MEMORIAM

DURING the past summer news was received of the death of Rev. Francis T. Quinn, O. P., of St. Thomas’ Church, Zanesville, O. Fr. Quinn earned the love of all his parishioners by his sincere interest in their welfare and his death came as a severe shock.

Born in New Haven, Conn., February 15, 1882, Fr. Quinn entered the Order of Friars Preachers in November, 1901. He made his simple profession at St. Rose’s Convent, Springfield, Ky., Christmas Day, 1903. From here he went to the House of Studies, Washington, D. C., where he completed his studies and was ordained to the priesthood, June 24, 1909.

Fr. Quinn’s work was principally among the poor and the sick. He was at the service of all in time of sorrow and sickness. No hour was too late to call Fr. Quinn to minister to the sick and the dying, often times he would remain at the deathbed to pray for the departing soul at the greatest personal sacrifice. Also during the Zanesville floods, Fr. Quinn labored zealously day and night and there was no family, Protestant as well as Catholic that he did not assist, cheering and consoling them in their distress.

As Principal of St. Thomas School, Fr. Quinn was greatly liked by all and both the Sisters and pupils testify to his zeal for their happiness. As a student himself, Fr. Quinn was greatly interested in athletics and at St. Thomas’ encouraged every legitimate pleasure among the young.

On August 11th, Fr. Quinn was taken to the Good Samaritan Hospital, Zanesville. Though his condition was serious he gradually improved and was preparing to return home when a relapse took place which proved fatal. He died Friday, September 1st. The esteem in which Fr. Quinn is held, was made manifest by the words of Fr. Kearney, pastor of St. Thomas’: “I have known priests both young and old, during many years and I can say without hesitation that Fr. Quinn was the best priest I have ever known.” May his soul rest in peace.
